WANT NO FREE FIELD.

To Be Abolished at Morris Park at Jockey Club's Request.

Not Conducive to the Best Interests of Racing, They Say.

No More 1-2-3 Betting Except in the Paris Mutuels.

The Jockey Club makes the following announcement in the Racing Calendar, the organ of the Club:

"At a meeting of the Stewards of the Jockey Club, held on April 27, the following resolution was adopted and a copy of the same forwarded to the New York Jockey Club:

Resolved, That the Stewards of the Jockey Club, being convinced that the 'Free Field' at Morris Park, has been duly reserved, and is not inclined to notify that the New York Jockey Club will take action in accordance with your resolution, Resolved:

"H. G. CRICKMORE, Secretary."

The free field was one of the things that made Morris Park popular. For five days thousands of persons who could not afford to pay the $1.50 that was demanded for the 'free field' came to the track and made a holiday of their race-going trip. It was one feature of the Morris Park management that was always commended and pleasantly referred to. As was expected the Jockey Club announces that there will be no 1-2-3 betting, except in the Paris mutuels.

"John Hunter, F. J. Dwyer and J. G. K. Lawrence will act as stewards at the Brooklyn meeting."

Under the head of notices the following appears:

The Stewards of the Jockey Club give notice that the horses granted to train on the track are good, not only in the course, but in the race course, no race or percentage are charged. The Stewards of the Jockey Club herewith give notice that it is not their intention to exact license fees from individuals pursuing their accustomed avocation on race-courses sanctioned by the Jockey Club outside the track, but on the grounds of the Jockey Club.

This is truly remarkable and shows a spirit of gentleness and moderation that will no doubt bring its reward. Scrub-women, laborers, and others "pursuing their accustomed avocations on race-courses" will no longer be subjected to the kind, good stewards of the Jockey Club who do not charge them $50 a day for the privilege of "pursuing their accustomed avocations."

The Jockey Club seems to be losing another bit in its attempt to monopolize the turf. The American Turf Congress and come on here to ride. This commission will no doubt be attended to now that it has been drawn to their attention. The following was received by the Evening World from the Racing Calendar office late to-day:

In addition to the Jockey Club notices printed on Thursday, May 10, 1894, the following announcements are made, published by the Jockey Club:

The Stewards of the Jockey Club give notice that the horses granted to train on the track are good, not only in the course, but in the race course, no race or percentage are charged. The Stewards of the Jockey Club herewith give notice that it is not their intention to exact license fees from individuals pursuing their accustomed avocation on race-courses sanctioned by the Jockey Club outside the track, but on the grounds of the Jockey Club.

That persons who are now in the Morris Park Club are not disqualified from entering and racing their horses on any other track, but are to be licensed by the Stewards.

The agreement between the Jockey Club and the American Turf Congress in respect of forfeit and their reciprocal enforcement, takes effect from the 1st of January, 1894, and thereafter, does not relate to arrears of previous years. Licensed courses come within the provision of this agreement.

The existing forfeit list of the four racing associations comprising the Jockey Club will be strictly enforced over their grounds.

This means a backdown on the part of the Jockey Club from its position in regard to fees and fines. It is evidently a move towards placating Walsingham and the other turf interests, but it is not clear if it is rather rough on those owners and trainers who have made terms with the Jockey Club in its more or less willing supporters.

NO DECISION TO-DAY.

Corporation Counsel McDonald's Opinion Not Ready.

There were many turnouts and all around sports in and about the offices of the Brooklyn Jockey Club, opposite the City Hall, in Brooklyn, this morning anxiously awaiting for Corporation Counsel McDonald's opinion regarding the attitude of the administration towards the Ives Pool law, but they were doomed to be disappointed, for shortly after noon it was announced that Mr. McDonald was not ready and would not submit his decision to the Mayor to-day.

They were also anxious to know if Mayor Scherren would grant the first-class theatrical license for boxing tournaments at the old Casino under the auspices of the Seaside Athletic Club, a new organization.

At the office of the Brooklyn Jockey Club this morning Secretary McIntyre made the following statement to the Evening World reporter:

"As far as I can see the opinion of Judge Pryor in no way affects our note for a bet and incidentally the Court touched upon the validity of the Ives bill, but the Court might just as well have touched on any other subject. We have made no new plans, but propose to go right on as we have done heretofore."

"Of course, I am anxious to hear what Mayor Scherren has to say about the matter. But regardless of that, the great handicap will be next Tuesday afternoon, unless the world turns over. The race will be run just the same as before, and there will be betting on the track unless I am greatly mistaken."

Later in the day Mayor Scherren announced that he had refused O'Rourke's application for a license. Boxing matches at Coney Island are therefore dead for a long time to come.

TIP IS STILL ALIVE.

Conference to Be Held to Consider a Method of Killing Him.

Big Crowd Gathers to Bid the Vicious Elephant Farewell.

Dashes His Trunk About Furlously and Frightens Women.

Tip, the man-killing elephant, is still alive, but there will be a conference at the Arsenal late this afternoon between Director Smith, of the Central Park Menagerie, Prof. Wallace, of the Museum of Natural History, and the Park Commissioners to discuss a method of killing him.

Poison, either prussic acid or cyanide of potassium, will be used to get rid of the big fellow. The execution may take place early to-morrow morning in the presence of a limited number of witnesses, but those who know will not make known the exact time.

Assistant Superintendent of the Menagerie Burns, who was seen by a reporter this morning, said:

"I can assure you positively that Tip will live until 6 o'clock this evening, anyway."

Mr. Burns added that the elephant would have to be killed very soon, for with every hour of life comes increased irritability that may at any time develop into frenzy. Then what might occur can only be guessed at.

As early as 8 o'clock this morning hundreds of curious eyes had taken possession of the big fellow. The old Tip's house and watched him at a safe distance.

The throng was so great that a guard had to be placed about the house to keep persistent youths from getting too near.

Painters were at work to-day on Tip's house and it was not to be expected that the surging people that ropes had to be strung about.

Tip, while whipped his trunk about viciously, and occasionally uttered a head-splitting roar that made the ears of the on-lookers tingle.

Keeper Snyder was on hand, but as courageous a man as he is, he kept safely away from the elephant, who has given his usual morning meal of carrots, apples and hay.

COURT OF INQUIRY.

It Will Investigate the Stranding of the Persian Monarch.

Pursuant to an order cabled by the English Admiralty to-day to the British Consulate in this city, a Court of Inquiry will be appointed next Tuesday to investigate the causes which led to the stranding of the English steamer Persian Monarch at Eastport, L. I., on May 1.

The Court will sit in the Chesborough building, on State street. Among the witnesses to be called are Captain H. H. Haines, of the Cunard line, who has made 600 trips across the Atlantic; Her Majesty's Consul, Gilbert Fraser, who will preside; and the following:

Capt. Bristow and Chief Officer Hill, of the Persian Monarch, who will be on the stand to give evidence; Capt. Parsell, of the White Star liner Majestic, to defend them.

PROBABLY THE LASCA.

Spree Might Have Sighted John E. Brooks's Schooner Yacht.

At the New York Yacht Club it was said to-day that the craft sighted by the Spree, as told elsewhere, was probably the Lasca, owned by John E. Brooks.

She sailed for Glasgow about the middle of April with a pleasure party on board. By the present time she should have reached the coast of Ireland.

The Lasca is a schooner-rigged yacht, measuring 119 feet in length, 25 feet in beam, and has a depth of 11 feet.

American College Alumni Election.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 10.—The tenth annual meeting of the Alumni Association of the American College at Rome was held at the Trovador yesterday. About 150 clergymen were present. Horton, Baltimore; Secretary, Rev. J. C. McElroy, New York; Historian, Rev. Francis E. Wall, New York; Treasurer, Rev. J. C. Wall, New York; and the following: William Glavin, Providence; John Hickey, Cincinnati.

Assignee Curb's Court.

Judge Boatwaker, of the Court of Common Pleas, today granted Bainbridge Cobb, assignee of Charles L. Webster & Co., permission to file a provisional bond of $20,000.

Which was the Bill?

There is an old story about an artist who got down to his last dollar. There is nothing unusual in the story so far, as all artists are aware, but he made a unique disposal of the greenback. He put a coat of paint and stung on a canvas, laid the bill down and turned up a corner or two, pressed it firmly down and gave the whole a couple of coats of varnish. He then placed it on an exhibition for a nominal sum in some store, and finally disposed of the wonderful painting for a good round sum.

The Boston Post-Intelligencer was reminded of this legend by the exhibition of a bill which appeared above the other bills, and which was a two dollar bill.

There is only one bill, which is a two dollar bill, which failed to detect the real from the painted.

The true bill of the Magic Iron-Tone, on draught at all fountains. See page 10.

SPORT GOES KINDLY.

Moves Like a Good One at Sheepshead, but Sours at Gravesend.

Henry of Navarre Has a Nice Mile and a Furlong Gallop.

Clifford Out, but Does Nothing More Than Canter.

GRAVESEND, L. I., May 10.—This was a very quiet day at the track. The Handicap candidates only received trotting and cantering exercise. They will be sent along at a good fast clip to-morrow, and on Sunday will receive their final preparation.

Sport was taken over to Sheepshead Bay this morning, and he worked a mile and a quarter in 2:11 very kindly. It seems strange that this colt will not work over the Brooklyn track.

Henry of Navarre was at Gravesend and went a mile and a furlong in 2:04. He did this so easily that the spectators were much impressed. This colt looks like the king-pin of the three-year-olds. His action is perfect and he is a very pretty goer.
